Historic Responsibility

It has been two millennia since mankind witnessed, once again, the eternal and universal phenomenon of union between human and divine aspects, in perfect unity, inside a human being. We refer here to no more or less than the embodiment of the Truth into a human being.

This was not a unique or isolated phenomenon through human history, but in this case there was a difference: it proved outwardly a process which is normally very intimate and personal.

The chosen location for this happening was the Middle East, the cradle of great civilizations, point of blending and connection between the antique traditions and religions with the most recently flourishing philosophies. In this vast melting pot also rendered evident the Gnostics, organized and spread in different groups throughout the entire area of Middle East.

What is historically interesting is that when the Anointed, Jeshua Ben Pandira, appeared, the majority of these groups, listening to his doctrine and knowing his life, they saw reflected and embodied in him their own Gnostic philosophies. He represented the living example of the knowledge that they were trying to put in practice, to live, to embody. Thus, without giving up their own philosophical knowledge, they converted to his unconditional disciples, and in this way they enriched and made actual their knowledge.

The rest is already known: over years and centuries, some of the sects or groups believed themselves better than others and they combined together and constituted the Catholic Church, Apostolic and Roman, whose aim was to gather together the variety of sects. But they marginalized all the ones who did not share similar views with the newly created Church. Shortly after, the Catholic Church defines itself as state religion, and imposes its "truth" through means of persecution and fire – its "truth" but not the Truth, thus castrating the soul and the true spirit of this primitive Christianity.

An eloquent example is given by Paul of Tars when he talks about Christ, making a clear allusion to the intimate Christ or the way in which the Gnostic Kabala explains how Chokmah is a very elevated part of our spiritual nature. Jesus tells us: "He, who wants to reach the Father, needs to go through the Son (the Christ)". All these aspects have no meaning to the young and recently established Catholic Church, who totally rid itself of the primitive Christian teachings and of the keys which could have helped their profound understanding.

The primitive Christianity is revolutionary; it talks about the seeking and the creation in the human being of a radical transformation that can bring a person closer, day by day, by personal efforts and experience, to the Truth and the individual, intimate and profound Being.

On the other hand, the new religion of the Roman Empire appears to hinder the human liberation, placing itself midway between God and man. It proclaims itself the mean to reach God, and it assumes the mediator role, or the role of the intermediary. They see Christ as someone untouchable, a far away being, foreign to human perception. This is the opposite view of Paul of Tars and the primitive Gnostics, who see Christ as something intimate, close and touchable through a profound living of daily life experiences.

The universal Gnosticism shows us that inside the human nature exist many parts to be discovered and conquered. We have the chances to change our nature (as the alchemists also mentioned), and to succeed in conquering these inner parts, only in this physical world, during life itself. It all depends on the aspiration of each person to obtain this or not, and on the meaning each person gives to his/her own life.

Gnosis, the so called “perennial and universal philosophy”, has an existence of its own, and throughout the centuries constantly invited the human being to fight to know himself more and more intimately. Gnosis is eminently practical and leaves the dogmas to the mind of the people.

Thus we will repeat the ancient dictum: “first know and then act”, but never stop and never believe that you have succeeded.

From this public tribune we express our support to all genuine Gnostics who make their light shine, and continue to divulge faithfully and without fanaticism the great and eternal Truth.

In this new day and by the side of a new and true guide of humankind, let the Gnostics prove once again their values and rise themselves to the height of the circumstances. Let man and history separate the seeds from the straws, the fire from the smoke, allowing the message of the Fifth of the Seven expend without limitations, and inspire the world.

Headlines:

200.000 people pass illegally the frontier between Mexico and Guatemala, heading to the US. They are still attacked and assaulted in Mexico by bands and even police forces.

In the past the borders allowed free passage. Now the frontiers are full of armed border guards who require passports and certificates of all kind for letting you go from one country to another. This situation is the result of fear and the search for security. There exist apprehension towards he who comes, and search for security in passports and all sorts of papers.

Indonesia will lose up to 2.000 islands due to weather conditions.

Counting around 17.500 islands, the largest archipelago of the world will see a part of his territory sunk when the poles melting will cause the rise of the sea level. "For the year 2030 is predicted that the water will increase with 8 to 29 cm, fact that will make the water cover around 2.000 islands" declared Jaya Murjana, director de Meteorology.

A pig farm for organ transplants: a group of researchers from Arad (Romania) conceived a project for the creation of a transgenetic pig farm from which they will extract organs with the purpose of transplanting them to humans, without waiting a human donor. It will be possible to extract organs such as heart, liver, kidneys, blood vessels, cornea, bones, tendons, and skin. Also, they will use the proteinic substance for diabetes treatment.

AN ATOMIC ARSENAL AROUND US.

USA: The operational nuclear war heads currently possessed by the US number between 5.000 and 10.000, although its industry reached a capacity of 70.000

Russia: Its operational nuclear capacity consists of 2.000 to 3.500 nuclear war heads, although they succeeded to produce 55.000 of these devastating inventions

France: Its total arsenal is estimated to 500 to 1.000 operational war heads, out of which 384 travel aboard its submarines

Great Britain: Its complete nuclear force is estimated to 250 operational war heads, although there were produced over 1.200

China: International experts estimate the total Chinese arsenal to about 400 nuclear operational war heads

Israel: Its capacity is between 75 and 130 nuclear war heads, especially for aviation and ground based missiles type Jerico-1 and Jerico-2. Certain sources estimate this number to 400 operational war heads

India: Experts calculated about 200 operational war heads in the form of missiles type Prithvi and Agni

Pakistan: The estimation is about 50 operational war heads mounted in medium distance missiles

North Chorea, Byelorussia, Kazakhstan and Ukraine, after the break-up of former USSR, possessed on their territories nuclear war heads, and about South Africa it is believed it possesses at least 10 war heads.

THE VATICAN ABOLISHES 'LIMBO'

VATICAN. The Vatican has decided to abolish the concept of "Limbo", the place where, according to Christian belief, the children that died without being baptized remain in eternal waiting. The reason is that it reflects "an excessively restrictive vision of the salvation". The International Theological Commission published recently, with the authorization of Pope Benedict the XVI, a document containing the conclusions of a 3 years research upon this question of Limbo.

INCREASED NICOTINE LEVEL IN CIGARETTES

(Source: Publimetru - Mexico)

Researchers from the Harvard School of Public Health analyzed data from the main cigarettes brands and discovered that from 1998 to 2005 the quantity of nicotine in each cigarette increased with 11%, perpetuating a tobacco pandemic which would make very difficult the abandonment of this vice by the smokers.

According to this study, the chemical substances in each cigarette, irrespective of the brand, increased continuously with 1,6% every year. "The cigarettes convert slowly into means to send out drugs destined to perpetuate the tobacco pandemic" says Howard Koh, dean of the institution.

SUBATOMIC PARTICLES PASS THROUGH THE ENTIRE PLANET.

When cosmic rays encounter the superior atmosphere, they produce subatomic particles called muons, which reach our planet in quantities of over 10.000 per square meter, every minute. Muons can penetrate almost any material and, as we are dealing with particles that are charged just like electrons, they are easy to detect.

Besides protons, electrons, neutrons etc. there are many other corpuscles, unknown yet by the official science. Every atom is a true Universe in miniature. Every atom is a trio of matter, energy and consciousness.

A CITY SUBMERGED UNDER OCEAN Ruins around the island Yonaguni in Japan.

Some unusual mountain formations have been found on the bottom of the sea, nearby the coast of Japan. Experts do not agree on their origins. Besides the discoveries from the south of island Yonaguni, there have been important discoveries in the west as well. In 1990 it was found a gigantic pyramid built in stone. The pyramid was 183 meters wide and 27,43 meters high. It was built with rectangular stones and had 5 levels. There are also some other small constructions nearby, similar to the giant pyramid. They were layers of stone of 10 meters wide and 2 meters high.

Is this the legendary civilization MU?

Towards the end of XIX century the British colonel James Churchward was on duty in a garrison in India. He had the luck to obtain the inscription from Naccal from a abbot of a Hindu temple. It was a very enigmatic language. After many trials, Churchward and a very well known monk deciphered the history of some great pre-historic civilizations. In 1926 Churchward published a book called "The lost continent MU".

A valuable old Maya manuscript, currently preserved in a British Museum, says textually the following: "In year 6 KAN, 11 Muluc, month Zac, occurred terrible earthquakes that continued ceaselessly until 13 Chen. The country of Clay Hills, the Mu Land, was sacrificed. After two more convulsions it dissappered, during the night, being constantly shaken by subterranean fires which made earth sink and reappear more times and in different places. In the end, the surface gave up and ten countries [...] armed to the teeth and with obvious absurd frontiers [...], separated and dissappeared. 64 millions people sunk, 8.000 years before writing this book."

In the millenary archives of the ancient Temple of Lhasa one can still see, inspite the passing of numerous centuries, a very old caldean inscription, written about 2.000 years before Christ, which says literally: "When the star Bar fell where now there is just sea and sky, the seven cities with their golden gates and transparent temples trembled and shaken like the leaves of the tree moved by the storm."

And here a powerful wave of fire and smoke rose from among the palaces; the shouts of agony from the crowds filled the air. They were looking for shelter in their temples and cities, and the wise Mu, priest of Ra-Mu, appeared and told them: "Did I not predict all this?"

THE MESSAGE OF THE WATER

Doctor Masaru Emoto, graduated of International Relations and Alternative Medicine, took interest in the healing properties of the water about 15 years ago, and contacted a Californian researcher who was studying the subtle vibrations of the water molecules by using the magnetic resonance technique. Working with this man of science, professor Emoto asked himself: would it be possible to reflect the healing qualities of different types of water in a visible and touchable manner?

The "happy idea" to end this study determined him to try to take a photograph of the hexagonal crystals formed by different samples of water when going to freeze. And from the images he obtained it came the confirmation of his surprising hypothesis: some samples of water present in the big cities presented a gross crystalline structure, whereas the water samples from the springs offered crystals of great beauty. He extended his area of study and photographed water crystallization from different places of the world (glaciers, lakes, rain water, wells), obtaining crystals of more beauty and surprising forms the further they were from human habitation.

The major surprise came when he succeeded to transform the irregular models of the contaminated water in beautiful hexagonal crystals by subjecting them to traditional songs, religious prayers, and also classical music. Or when the “indifferent” crystals of distilled water transformed into beautiful geometrical models when whispering them gratitude words; or on the opposite when he obtained terrible structures after subjecting them to disagreeable phrases.

The words always crystallize in geometrical lines. This is proved with the tape recorder. God is geometrical. The word takes geometrical forms.

A soft word calms down the anger. But a rude, unpleasant word produces grief, or melancholy, sadness, anger... Vulgar words, words of discord, [...] modify the vibrations of the creative energies, giving them various truly fatal vibrations ...

ISAAC NEWTON CALCULATED THE DATE OF THE END OF THE WORLD

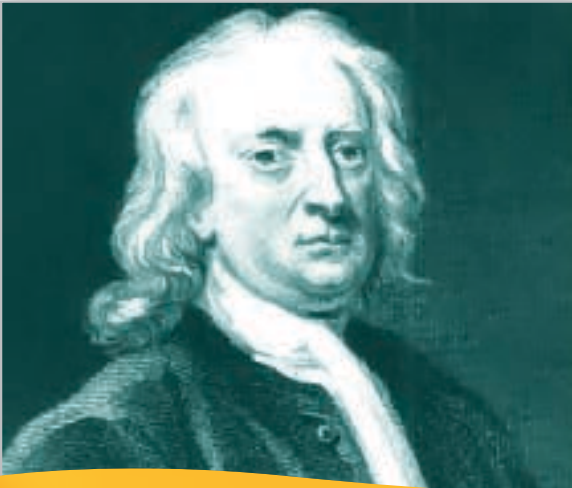

The Hebrew University from Jerusalem exhibits for the first time to the general public some manuscripts on alchemy and biblical prophecies of the British science man Isaac Newton (1643-1727). Mathematician known for establishing the basis of mechanics and the enouncement of the universal gravitation, Newton shared some less scientific interests to which he applied the same rigor, just like his other investigations. Lover of theology and alchemy, Newton theorize, starting from the Bible, about the date of the end of the world. The answer? 1,260 years after the reconstruction of the Sacred Roman Empire, finished by Charles the Great (fr. Charlemagne).

The Hebrew University from Jerusalem received these manuscripts of the British science man almost four decades ago, as inheritance from a collector.

In them it is mentioned that around 1704 Newton calculated this date starting from a Bible excerpt, more exactly from the book of Daniel. He concluded that the world will end 1,260 years after the quoted historic event, which means year 2060 our age (AD).

The grammar says the following: A, preposition which means separation, removal. Teo, means God, but if we put the particle A, we form the word Atheist, with which we denominate the one who does not believe in God. A-divine represents the exact opposite of the divine, which is the devilish. The diviners (Adivinos in Spanish) are dark diviners, which are black magi. The prophets are the clear-sighted of the light, they are white diviners. For being prophet it is necessary to receive the The Holy Spirit.

MICROCHIPS IN HUMAN BEINGS

The microchips represent a reality for some good years, but only towards the end of 2004 the Food and Drugs Administration (FDA) authorized their usage in human beings, moment in which they came out as topical snapshot. This type of identification, of the size of a rice grain, appeared as registration and localization system for animals; for people it has been tried only for several months. This is a minuscule device that can be introduced in any object, and, with an agreed frequency, can utter a signal that transmits a series of data.

The video watching company named "Citywatcher.com", from Cincinnati (Ohio), was the pioneer company in using the chips for controlling the employees' access in security restricted areas of the company.

In an era when technological progress is more frequent than the changes of morality and ethics, it is possible to find ourselves in situations in which we have to decide upon our physical bodies without having the time to assess the consequences.

IN THE SEARCH OF A LOST ETHNIC GROUP

A group of adventurers penetrated by kayak the unexplored lands of Taitao Peninsula, the 11th Region of Chile. The purpose was to dig out vestiges, or with some luck, to meet a representative of the originary people of Chonos which, according to the leader of the expedition Ricardo Vasquez Caballero, survived in the savageness without any contact with the civilization. Giving the impact that may result from this fact, there are evidences that sustain this possibility Chonos formed one of the most important groups of hunters-harvesters from the south of Chile, as they were the only ones to build sophisticated canoes (Dalcas) made of spruce fir wood, like Yaganes or Onas. According to the tradition, they were captured by soldiers in order to sell them as slaves, and later removed by the measures of Jesuit missionaries' which obliged them to get isolate in the island of Chiloe, in order to ease their conversion to Christianity, reason for which they are today a lost civilization.

ÓSCAR UZCATEGUI

(1950 Venezuela)

Contemporary Gnostic writer and anthropologist

From a very young age he had great spiritual inquietudes, which led him to a ceaseless search of the inherent values of the Gnostic Being.

At 16 years old he started his work as diffuser of the Gnostic studies creating Gnostic groups in his country of birth.

Later on he kept correspondence with Dr. Samael Aun Weor, during nine years, in which he consulted and dialogize with the Founder President of contemporary Gnosticism. This allowed him to obtain a doctrinaire base adequately ample and profound.

At 24 years old, at the invitation of Dr. Samael Aun Weor, he leaves Venezuela in order to go and work under his guidance in Mexican territory. In this country he will carry out, under the instructions of Dr. Samael, various works of Gnostic dissemination.

We need to mention that for a period of three years he had the opportunity to stay close to the precursor of contemporary Gnosis, leaving in his house. He could experience, in a direct manner, the depth and the importance of the Gnostic wisdom promoted by Dr. Samael Aun Weor. The latter led him to have a clear and objective understanding of his line of work.

Thanks to these things, AGEAC (the Gnostic institution founded by him in 1989) may achieve today its goal of promoting the Gnosis without altering the body of the Gnostic teachings and the work line followed by Dr. Samael Aun Weor.

Besides numerous articles and forewords, he is the author of the following literary works:

- The Answers of a Lama
- 33 Revealed Alchemy Engravings
- Gnostic Egypt
- Mutus Liber Talking
- Lambsprinck Revealed
- The Power of the Totem
- The Memories of a Theban Priest
- Ego, Essence and Reality
- Gnostic Ontology
- Alchemy Jewels
- Samael Aun Weor; The Absolute Man

THE ABSOLUTE MAN

A great and wise attempt to depict the life of this great Initiate of the XX century who abandoned all relativity for remaining established in the reign of what is eternal. The author also relates numerous aspects of the transcendental and immortal gnosis; at the same time he presents biographical dates of his mentor and friend, and his experiences with him.

THE PROPHECIES OF SAINT MALACHY

He was born in Armagh, Ireland, in 1094, in family O'Morgair, after St. Bernard of nobleness. He was baptized with the name Maelmhaedhoc (a name which has been Latinized as Malachy, meaning "the angel of God").

St. Malachy was appointed Archbishop in 1132, which dignity he accepted with reluctance because of his great modesty. In 1139 he journeyed to Rome and on the way there he visited St. Bernard in Clairvaux. In Rome he was appointed Pope legate for Ireland. In his second trip to Rome he fell sick and died in the arms of St. Bernard, on 2 November.

Many miracles are attributed to him, but he is most known for his prophecy gift. Among the most famous is the prediction of all the popes who would ever reign.

According to the hypothesis of Abbot Cucherat (1871), St. Malachy wrote the prophecy in Rome between 1139 and 1140, while visiting Pope Innocent II to report all issues of his diocese. It is in 1140 when he entrusted the Pope with his manuscript, but for some reason it was "lost" in the Vatican for 400 years, only to be "discovered" in 1595 A.D. He catalogued each pope with an epigrammatic verse.

The last Popes:

# 106: „ Pastor Angelicus” (An Angelic Pastor). Pius al XII (1939-1958). Recognized as a great intellectual and a defender of peace;

# 107: „Pastor et nauta” (Pastor and Sailor). John XXIII (1958-1963) was the Patriarch of Venice, city of sailors. He ran the Church to the Council of Vatican II

# 108: “Flos florum” (Flower of Flowers). Paul VI (1963-1978). Paul's coat-of-arms depicts three fleurs-de-lis (the flower of flowers);

# 109: “De meditare Lunae” (Of the Half Moon). John Paul I (1978-1978). His name was „Albino Luciani” (white light). He was born in the diocese of Belluno (Latin: "beautiful moon"). He became pope on August 26, 1978, when the moon appeared exactly half full. He died the following month, soon after an eclipse of the moon. His birth, as well as his ordination as both priest and bishop took place when there was a half moon;

# 110: “De labore solis” (The Labor of the Sun). John Paul II (1978-2005). He was capable of an extraordinary and vast work. He was the only pope who was both born the day of an eclipse of the sun, and entombed the day the sun was eclipsed. He was born in Poland, being the only pope coming from an Eastern Europe country (where the Sun comes from);

# 111: “Gloria Olivae” (The Glory of the Olive). Benedict XVI (2005). He was born in a Saturday of Glory, the last Saturday before the Holy Week (when the Great Fasting takes place), which starts with the Palm Sunday (or of olive branches). The Order of Saint Benedict received the appellation “Olivetans”.

There is only one left on the list:

# 112: “Petrus Romanus” (Peter the Roman). He will be the last pope as during his reign there will be the end, St. Malachy says:

*“In the final persecution of the Holy Roman Church there will reign Petrus Romanus, who will feed his flock amid many tribulations; after which the seven-hilled city will be destroyed and the dreadful Judge will judge the people.
The End.”*
